Classified computers must be sent to post via the classified diplomatic pouch, or be hand carried by a non-professional diplomatic courier. All classified equipment must bear external USG bar-coded inventory numbers and classification marking commensurate with the highest level of information processed on the system. Cellular/mobile phones and palm-pilots are prohibited in Controlled Access Areas. Questions concerning other types of electronic devices and magnetic media may be directed to the ISSO or RSO. Electricity in Tunisia is 220 Volts.

¶10. Security/Crime Information: Tunisia is a moderate Arab country that has traditionally enjoyed peace and stability. However, in light of the September 11 attacks in the United States and in view of the ongoing violence in Israel, the West Bank, Gaza and elsewhere in the Middle East region, the American Embassy reminds visitors to maintain a high level of vigilance and to take appropriate steps to increase their security awareness. While the Government of Tunisia has and will continue to make every effort to protect foreigners, visitors should avoid large crowds and crowded public areas and keep in regular contact with the Embassy.

¶11. Tunisian security forces are omnipresent and generally ensure public order. Low level, non-violent property crimes of opportunity are relatively common. Pickpockets and purse-snatchers are common in areas with high volume tourist traffic, such as the Tunis Medina (old city) and central market. It is prudent to exercise normal travel security precautions and maintain a low profile as one would in any major U.S. city. This should help to ensure an incident-free visit.
